The Customer shall not be entitled to sell, lease, pawn, or otherwise assign the Product or its possession to a third party or use the Product for a purpose other than the one specified in the Contract. As required by the Supplier, the Customer shall provide all the Products it receives under the Contract with markings indicating that they are the property of the Supplier.

The Customer's liability for service fees that are not charged on a pay-per-use basis shall continue as per the Contract even if the Payment Terminal Service is discontinued due to a damaged or lost Product.

The Customer undertakes, at its own risk and expense, to return the Product to the Supplier within one (1) month of the termination of the Contract in a condition specified in these General Terms and Conditions of Contract. For detailed information on returning the Product, please refer to the Supplier's website at www.nets.fi. The Supplier undertakes to correct, free of charge and without undue delay, any faults and errors in the Product that the Customer reports in writing during the warranty period and that occur due to materials, structural, or manufacturing defects or the use, service, and cleaning instructions provided by the Product manufacturer or Supplier. Such a correction may include providing the Customer with a replacement Product. The warranty period shall be twelve (12) months from the Product delivery date.

The Customer shall, at its own risk and expense, deliver the Product to the Supplier's location for repairs. The Supplier shall pay the expenses for returning the repaired Product to the Customer.

Furthermore, the Supplier shall be entitled to charge the Customer for agreed repairs of faults or errors that are not covered by the warranty.

The Supplier's liability for Product faults and errors shall be limited to the fulfilment of its warranty obligations as per this Section 11.

The Payment Terminal Service shall be provided by using the Supplier's methods and as the Supplier deems fit. The Supplier shall be entitled to interrupt the use of the Payment Terminal Service as necessary for the repair, service, or improvement of the Payment Terminal Service or due to another justified reason. The Supplier shall attempt to communicate any interruptions in the Payment Terminal Service in advance to the Customer.

The Customer shall follow the Supplier's written instructions on the use of the Payment Terminal Service.

The Customer shall ensure that it has made the agreements that are necessary for the use of the Payment Terminal Service with the acquirer of transactions and its settlement bank, among others.

The Supplier shall not be responsible for the functionality or availability of the third-party services or systems related to the Payment Terminal Service or any other such obligations. Such services include, among others:

17 LIMITATION OF LIABILITY

The Supplier shall not be liable for any indirect damage, expenses, or losses incurred by the Customer, such as loss of profit or income, third party claims, or damages due to a reduction or interruption in production, sales, or turnover. The Supplier shall not be liable to the Customer for any damage due to the discontinuation of the Payment Terminal Service.

The Supplier's maximum liability for direct damages shall be limited to a sum that is equivalent to the service charges that the Customer has paid for the Payment Terminal Service under the Contract in the six (6) months prior to the damage. The Supplier shall not be responsible for Product distribution or delivery schedules.

The Supplier shall not be liable for expenses incurred by the Customer or a third party due to the Customer's areas of responsibility or an error unrelated to the Supplier. 18 CHANGES TO THE GENERAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS

The Supplier shall be entitled to change these General Terms and Conditions of Contract by notifying the Customer in writing at least two (2) months prior to enforcing the change. If the change is not due to a compelling requirement by card associations, legislation, regulation, or an order or decision by an authority and the change is unfavourable for the Customer, the Customer shall be entitled to terminate the Contract before the change becomes effective by submitting a written notice to the Supplier. If the Customer has not terminated the Contract in writing before the change becomes effective, the Customer shall be deemed to have agreed to the new terms and conditions and the Customer shall be bound by the new provisions of the Contract.

19 CONFIDENTIALITY

Both parties shall treat as confidential the other party's information, negotiation information, and documents that should be understood as confidential. The Supplier, however, shall be entitled to assign confidential information pertaining to the Customer to its group companies and, as necessary for maintaining the Payment Terminal Service or securing the availability thereof, to third parties.

The Supplier shall be entitled to use any information pertaining to the Customer stored in its customer database in the marketing of its group companies.
